PROFESSOR FULVIO ATTINÀ

Jean Monnet Chair of EU Politics (since 1996)
Università degli Studi di Catania, Italy

Since 1991, Professor Fulvio Attinà has passed through all stages of the Jean Monnet career, starting with a Jean Monnet Module and a Permanent Course, over the first Jean Monnet Chair in Politics in Italy, to a successful application for a Jean Monnet Centre of Excellence. The University of Catania's “EuroMed” Centre of Excellence focuses on the Euro-Mediterranean relations and the European Neighbourhood Policy (ENP), with particular attention for foreign and security policy and intercultural dialogue. The Centre is particularly active with Summer Schools and Master courses and seminars for researchers from all the ENP states.

By organising the Standing Group on the European Union in the European Consortium for Political Research (ECPR) and by chairing the Editorial Board of the journal European Union Politics, Professor Attinà has played a significant role in the promotion of the study of European integration among European political scientists. As a gifted academic leader, he also served as President of the Italian Political Science Society (2005–2007). Outside of Europe, Professor Attinà has been actively contributing to the EU's visibility as a visiting professor at many renowned universities such as the Chinese Academy of Social Science, the University of Karachi, ITAM University of Mexico City and Columbia, New York and George Mason Universities. He has published numerous books and articles on the EU and international relations, including L'Unione Europea. Governo Istituzioni e Politiche (with Giorgio Natalicchi, 2007) and European Neighbourhood Policy: Political, Economic and Social Issues (with Rossi Rosa, 2004).
